Editorial policies

The magazine texts and senses is a biannual publication of the Faculty of Humanities, Social Sciences and Education at the Catholic University of Pereira (UCP), which aims to disseminate the theoretical and methodological contributions and the overall results of the investigation process produced from the Humanities, Social Sciences and Education, to thereby contribute to the consolidation of academic communities and knowledge networks around these issues.

In this sense, texts and senses is aimed at professionals and social researchers who dedicate their work to areas of knowledge related to the fields of inquiry proposed by the Human, Social and Educational Sciences. Then responding to the standards of article whose intent is the dissemination of knowledge, new material is published in Spanish, English, Portuguese and French that is not partially or totally committed to other publications.

It is up to the Editorial Committee to receive and publish some methodological notes, reviews or book reviews and brief comments on articles that have been published, as well as the responses of the author or authors of those documents.

It is important to note that although the editions of texts and senses will be on concerning the free thematic fields mentioned above, the Editorial Committee also has the power to eventually call the reception of articles on specific thematic objects (such dossier); whose publication is not responding to special editions of the Journal, or alter the biannual basis of this.

All articles1 received by the journal texts and meanings are initially submitted for consideration by the Editorial Committee, a body that supports the relevance of those documents for the magazine, and after that endorsement, refers them to two anonymous evaluators (national or international) experts in the subject field object or article put into consideration, who cast their concepts (article publishable, publishable with some bug or not publishable) which are assumed by the Editorial Committee of the Journal.

__________________________

1 Watch features of the articles contained in the guide for authors of the journal texts and meanings
Meanwhile, in cases where the publication of the article is approved, the author or authors should give (in written form) the economic rights in the document to the UCP as publishing institution and funding of the magazine texts and senses. Each edition is printed in 300 copies are sent to different universities in Colombia and abroad, and published in full in the repositories of our institution.

According to the classification of scientific areas of the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), the scientific work of texts and meanings lies within the social sciences and covers areas such as Psychology, Economics and Business, Education Sciences, Sociology, law, Political Science, Social and Economic Geography, Journalism and Communications and other social sciences.

The articles, comments and concerns can be addressed to Editorial Committee of the Journal email textosysentidos@ucp.edu.co or the faculty of Humanities, Social Sciences and Education of the UCP, located in the race 21 No. 49-95 Av. de las Américas city of Pereira (Risaralda, Colombia). Phone: (6) 3127722.

The digital version of the different editions of texts and meanings can be found on the page http://biblioteca.ucp.edu.co/OJS/index.php/textosysentidos